

BIFD continued..

The group operates through volunteers who teach and plan the music for each evening of dance. Each week one or more dances are taught early in the evening, and then reviewed again a little later. Our dances and music are quite varied, and come from all over the world. It is not uncommon to hear a beautiful and gentle waltz followed immediately by a lively and driving Bulgarian or Romanian dance with lots of stamping and shouting, followed then by a slow and mesmerizing Turkish or Albanian melody. The amazing variety of the sounds and movements keep things interesting and challenging. And there are always friendly folks ready to lend a hand and help.

Other activities sponsored by BIFD include occasional evenings with live music performed by our fabulous local musicians, and an annual weekend workshop in the late winter or early spring. A master teacher will come to town for an intense weekend of teaching sessions held Friday night and Saturday, with a party Saturday night and a review session Sunday morning. This year's workshop will be taught by Lee Otterholt. Lee is a favorite of folk dancers and has been here before.

Boulder International Folk Dancers

BIFD
A LIVELY AND THRIVING
FOLK DANCE COMMUNITY
SINCE 1956-57

Welcome to the Boulder International Folk Dancers. Just about any Friday night during the year you can hear strains of interesting and unusual music, and intriguing rhythms coming from the Pearl Street Studio in Boulder. You will also likely hear animated conversation, laughter, and lots of good cheer. This is the regular meeting time and place for the Boulder International Folk Dancers, known affectionately as BIFD.

One of BIFD's most well loved and long-standing traditions is its annual New Year's Day party. This is a wonderful celebration of the coming year, and serves as a chance for all dancers, including those who dance more regularly with other groups, to dance together, visit, "catch up" and start the new year off with a bang. This dance has been held at the Avalon for the last several years, and will be held there again on January 1, 2011. The festivities will begin at 7:30 p.m. and all are welcome.

BIFD has been around a long time, since 1956-57. In its early years BIFD operated as a club, however in 1993 it incorporated to become a tax-exempt, non-profit organization dedicated to learning about, teaching and dancing international folk dance. BIFD and its members have also long been active participants in and strong supporters of the Village Arts Coalition, and many BIFD members have served and currently serve as board members of the VAC. Any given week you will find many dancers who have been dancing for 20 years or more, as well as many who have only recently discovered the fascinating world of international folk dance.
